

Thomas Alva Edison

<http://gardenofpraise.com/ibdediso.htm>

When he was a child, Edison asked	he sold newspapers and candy on a train.
He once tried to hatch some eggs	in Menlo Park, New Jersey.
In his whole life he	by sitting on them.
Edison's mother	taught him at home.
To make money for his early experiments	went to school only three months.
At age sixteen he went	Edison had many other inventions.
He said he didn't mind being deaf	improving a machine at the gold company.
When hunting for a job in New York	he slept in the basement of a gold company.
He was paid $40,000 for	1500 materials before making a light bulb.
Edison built a laboratory	because it helped him concentrate.
Edison and his team tried	a lot of questions.
In addition to the electric	to work for the telegraph

light

office.